HANDS-ON WORKSHOP

The Innovation 4.0 Network brings together researchers from Concordia University, Université Laval, McGill University, Université de Sherbrooke, Polytechnique Montréal, UQAM, UQTR and ÉTS. Its objective is to promote collaborative research and the sharing of knowledge, resources and infrastructure assets related to Industry 4.0.

It was created in response to the growing need for training, research and technological development in industry.

It provides an incomparable showcase for Québec's achievements and expertise, and for encouraging SMEs and centres of excellence to train a workforce that is equipped to tackle the challenges that Industry 4.0 represents.
